STOCK MARKET WARNING

Several leading stock brokerage firms have inserted large advertisements in the leading newspapers of the country warning those who might succumb to speculative fever to stay out of the market if they are in it on a shoestring, and gambling merely for quick profits.

This type of advertising is in the best interests of the stock brokerage industry, and may do a lot to achieve stability and avoid disaster on the New York stock market.

No stock is better than the company it represents, or that company's prospects. It is silly to purchase a stock merely on the advice of a stockbroker, or friend, and such a purchase should never be made until one has conducted a thorough investigation of the corporation itself, its past, its future, and its growth potential in the immediate years ahead. For, after all, the price of the stock on the market reflects these factors.

PROGRESS IN RUSSIA

John F. Elliott, Associate Professor of Metallurgia at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said recently that the performance of the Russian steel blast furnaces is superior to those of the United States. Moreover, Elliott said that Soviet engineers are "on the trail of new ideas" that could put the Russian steel industry ahead of the U. S. industry in many ways, in a few short years.

This is another ominous indication of the tremendous strides being made in Russia, not only in the field of science, but in the field of industry. For years Russian steel production has been expanding, and higher percentage gains than that in the United States. While it is now only approximately half the total output of the United States, or perhaps even less, new ideas and superior performance of their blast furnaces could bring the Russians to a challenging position before most people had thought this was possible.

This, in conjunction with the fact that the Russians devote most of their output to military production, while the United States devotes only about ten per cent, indicates the seriousness of the technological challenge being posed today.

Elliott, who recently made a study of the Russian steel industry, says that the Soviet Academy of Science is actively aiding the effort of Soviet engineers to bring to other areas of steel making advanced technological processes equal to the technical superiority they now enjoy in blast furnaces.

The meat of Elliott's warning — and it is a warning, in a sense — is that the American steel industry, now in the throes of a strike, must adopt a program of vide research and exploration, and that vigorous and bold chances must be taken to achieve technological progress.

SEPTEMBER, 1959

September, the last summer month, is upon us, and when it is over, only three months will remain in 1959. Needless to say, time continues to fly.

Autumn begins on September 23rd this year, which is late for autumn.

The official end of World War II fell on September 2nd, 1945, with the authoritative surrender of Japan, although the fighting actually ended August 14th. Labor Day falls on September 7th this year, and that week-end will be the last summer holiday week-end for many.

September 9th, 1914, will long be remembered as the date on which the Allies stopped the Germans on the Marne in the Kaiser's attempt to end World War I in the first year.

The Star Spangled Banner was written on the 14th of September, 1814; the first Continental Congress was held September 5th, 1774, in Philadelphia, Constitution Day is observed on the 17th, and many anniversaries and memorable dates are recalled during the month.

On the 23rd, the length of the day and night will be exactly equal, one of the two times during the year this occurs.

Most older folks will tell you that the old days were wonderful, but, if they're honest, few of them would wish to have them back.

The best way to get your share of the wealth of the country is to work hard for it.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH L. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Obadiah; Jonah 1 and 2. Devotional Reading: Psalm 37.1-9.

Going Against God

Lesson for September 6, 1959

YOU WOULD never think that such a fool lived on earth as to try to go against God. But there not only have been such fools, there are such nowadays, and you and I, dear Reader, may be two of them. Look at the testimony of the Bible; look around you in the church and the world; look into your own heart; and you may be convinced.

Dr. Foreman

Yes, in the church and in the world; for even God's own people go against him, as fractious children kick and scream when their mother is trying to do them good. Consider the cases of Obadiah and Jonah. Obadiah is a little 2-page "book" mostly about the sins of Edomites, who were enemies of God's people to start with. Jonah is all about the sins of Jonah, one of God's prophets. The curious fact is that both the Edomites and Jonah were guilty of the same kinds of sins. Both worked against God.

Pride

The Edomites as a nation, at the time of Obadiah, were a proud people. They had wealth, they had power, they occupied a territory where an invading army had scarcely a chance. Being proud, they could not believe that any evil would ever touch them. They were immune, serene, never to be conquered. They had defied men; they were prepared to defy God.

Jonah the prophet also was proud. He was so proud, so sure he knew what to do and when to do it, that when God told him to go preach to Nineveh, he not only did not go but he paid the fare for a long sea voyage in the exactly opposite direction, to Tarshish. The peak and center and symptom of the sin of pride is this conviction, "God doesn't know best; I do!"

Violence

The prophet Obadiah condemns Edom, in the name of God, for their violence in war against their "brother Jacob," meaning Israel. We all object loudly to violence in war when somebody else is doing it. From the days of Grant and Sherman, whose names are not yet revered in the land that sorely felt their violence, to these perilous times when we can't say enough against the Russian rocketeers, the victims of violence don't like it. The thing the Japanese did to us at Pearl Harbor we did to them, only more so. We didn't like it when they did it; they didn't like it when we did it.

But it is not only "godless" nations that love violence. God-fearing individuals may be found shrieking "Kill him!" Jonah the prophet (to get into next week's story a little) was not content with preaching as the Lord commanded. He wanted to see Nineveh burn, and was bitterly disappointed when the fireworks did not go off.

"I've Stood Aloof"

A careful study of Obadiah 11-14 shows that what Edom did to Israel was not so much actual attack, as it was just standing by and doing nothing, or cheering on the armies which did the fighting. The Edomites were the looters, the camp-followers of the main enemy. They did comparatively little actual damage themselves, but they were pleased to see it done.

Jonah likewise kept himself aloof from Nineveh and Ninevites. He did not encourage their repentance, he did not like it. He evidently thought the only good Ninevite was a dead one, not a repentant one. He could not put himself in their place. He could sympathize with God's anger, but not with His mercy. The 120,000 babies of Nineveh meant something to God; nothing to Jonah.

"As You Have Done—"

God plays no favorites. Going against him is complete folly, it is absolute sin. If God had no use for violence, pride and selfish aloofness in the time of the prophets, has he changed today? Is America such a favorite nation with God that all our own pride and violence can go unnoticed by the Almighty? "As you have done, it shall be done to you" echoes down the ages as a warning to all. Wind is the seed of whirlwind.

About The Home

By Frances Del J

Statistics show that most accidents in the home result from carelessness. Something can be done about this!

Ladders are a "must" in every household, and should be used when washing windows, hanging curtains, and cleaning walls and ceilings, etc. Many hard falls have resulted from a housewife using a chair or stool to perform such jobs.

The burners on gas stoves should be completely turned off when not lighted for use. Pilot lights should be high enough to remain burning even when the gas is low.

When children are in the kitchen be sure that all the pots cooking, are pushed to the back of the stove out of their reach.

Train children to pick up and put away their toys. Never allow toys to remain scattered over the floor as this is one of the greatest household hazards known.

Provide an attractive chest decorated with nursery figures as a storage place. Make the child feel that this chest is his and give him a feeling of responsibility for his toys and the important job of keeping them in place. Reminded often enough and in the proper way, most children will respond.

Stairways should always be well lighted and uncluttered.

Keep such things as razor blades, knives and scissors well out of reach of children.

Mark all poisons and store where there is no chance of children or adults getting them by mistake.

Securely fasten window screens to keep children from falling out. Build gates at the top of porch steps or indoor stairways as an added safetly measure for children.

Very highly polished floors are not safe for young or old and are particularly dangerous where scattered rugs are used. It is not wise to apply wax on the flood under a scatter rug.
